

Whitsunday Anglican School

Client: Whitsunday Anglican School

Construction completed: 2007

Construction costs: ranging from $832,000 to $1.9 million (approx. $4.6m over 6 years)

During the past seven years Woollam Constructions has carried out five major building projects for the Whitsunday Anglican School. The work included extending and refurbishing the school's boarding facilities. This involved the construction of 24 private boarding accommodation style rooms, two supervisor's rooms, lounge and associated amenities. Woollam's also built new classrooms, provided outdoor undercover areas, staff offices, a new tuckshop and a new arts centre.

Client Comment: "Our school prides itself on the standards we set and expect from our students and staff. This is a key reason that I believe we have worked so well together on a number of different occasions during the last eight years.

The quality of your workmanship is a credit to your staff and the efforts they put into maintaining Woollam Constructions considerable reputation. It has felt very easy to have your company around the campus and any number of my students and staff commented favourably about this."
